OFFICIAL SAFETY MAGAZINE OF THE U.S. ARMY

THIS WEEK 20-24 JUNE 2016

NAILED IT!

When I was younger, I spent a summer working in framing construction. The two accidents my boss said would happen to me were I would fall through a ceiling brace and I would tag myself with a nail gun. He didn't tell me how to avoid these accidents. Instead, he just said to be careful and not hurt myself too badly. I was determined to ensure his predictions didn't come true.

LEARNING FROM MISTAKES

Just a few more inches to the left and my life would've been a lot different. I'd have been charged with DUI. Worse still, I could've hit another car and killed or injured someone else.

RECIPE FOR DISASTER

The aircrew was tasked with a slingload resupply in the Kunar Valley. This meant business as usual for our Chinook detachment. However, as we would find out, the events that would transpire on that mission were far from typical.
