Yard sale proves great Family fun

Pat Young
Managing Editor

More than a thousand customers visited the Great Morale, Welfare and Recreation Yard Sale April 26, which occurred simultaneously at Club Stewart and Squires Sports Complex parking lots, as well as in the housing areas on Fort Stewart and Hunter Army Airfield.

Fort Stewart coordinator Randy Walker, MWR Sports Office, said more than 100 vendors and 60 on-post residents participated in the event which is part of the installation's efforts to provide quality services, support and activities to its community members.

While the effort was a good money making event, many people found it was a good supplement to their spring cleaning efforts.

Spc. Paul Maloney, 385th Military Police Battalion, from New York, with his wife Jessica and daughter Jazmyn, 3, saw the opportunity to help get rid of some of the things they no longer needed, while making a few dollars on the side.

"This is our second time selling-participating in a MWR yard sale, Maloney said. "The first time we made some money and cleared out our children's closets."

They made room, a few dollars and had fun.

"This was a great idea. It's good to get people out," Maloney said. "It gives people a weekend activity they can do together as a Family."

And although the activity was fairly new to them, only participating in one prior Great Yard Sale, it was old shoe to many others.

"We drove down all the way from Virginia when we heard about the event," said Sunshine Montgomery who traveled with her sons Will and West; sister, Summer Edgars; mother, Darleen Rouse; and made the nearly 500 mile trip to go shopping. Montgomery heard about the event from their uncle, Donnie Everson, a retired Army community member living around Stewart.

"We found all kinds of good deals, Montgomery said. "And it proved a good time to visit Family too."

Army Community Services' Kara Casto also thought it was a great idea and thought it would be an ideal place to help get the word out about upcoming community support events.

She spoke with passing customers about programs like Dog Face Soldiers for Families, which is held the third Wednesday of each month to familiarize people with the 3rd Infantry Division legacy. A second program was the Mayors program as they recruit interested people who are committed to a superior way of life for the community; while yet a third was the Community Watch, which will kickoff 1 to 3 p.m. May 31 at the Hero Road playground.

But there are many more MWR activity upcoming including the first ever, Big Fish Contest 7 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday at Cedar Bay Pond number 30 on Fort Stewart, off Georgia Highway 119, just outside Gate 5. Participants can bring a picnic lunch; they'll also find vendors on site. And although the competition is only open to active duty Soldiers, the fishing is open to everyone.

For more information about the fishing event, call 435-8033.

To learn more about upcoming MWR events, check out the briefs found in this week's Frontline.

WTB nourished by Spiritual Fitness Luncheon

Randy Murray

Chaplain (Col.) Gordon G. Groseclose, chaplain for the Southeastern Regional Medical Command, Fort Gordon, Ga., preaches a message from 1 Samuel, at the WTB Spiritual Luncheon, April 24.

Randy Murray
Public Affairs Specialist

It's almost cliché to say it, but bad things really do happen to good people. The wounded, injured or seriously ill Soldiers assigned to the Warriors in Transition Battalion can testify to the truth in that statement. Some probably experience a little bitterness for the things they can no longer do, for dreams now shattered.

"Life is not what we always expect it to be," said Chaplain (Col.) Gordon Groseclose, chaplain for the Southeastern Regional Medical Command, Fort Gordon, Ga. "I have an appreciation for what it's like to have your dreams change due to an injury. But I'm here today to tell you that you can still have a good life."

Groseclose was the guest speaker for the WTB's first Spiritual Fitness Luncheon held at the WTB dining facility, April 24. The luncheon began with a welcoming by WT Command Sgt. Maj. Antonio Serrano and the invocation and blessing by WT Chaplain (Capt.) Nils Juarez. Diners resumed their meal during special music by Kendra Miller, wife of main post chaplain assistant, Sgt. Thomas Miller. She sang a moving hymn called "Holy Lord and Worthy."

Following the special music, a prayer for America's Warriors was lifted by Chaplain

(Capt.) Paul D. Ormond. This prayer was followed by a prayer for Army Families by Chaplain (Capt.) Thomas E. Allen, a prayer for the Army by WTB S-1 noncommissioned officer in charge, Sgt. 1st Class Linda Herron, and a prayer for America by Soldier and Family Assistance Center representative, Larry J. Wooten. The guest speaker was then introduced by WTB commander, Lt. Col. Tyra White.

"No Soldier gets up in the morning and says, 'I'm going to have a bad day,'" Groseclose explained, then related a biblical example from 1 Samuel in which the people of Israel suffered two disastrous losses to the Philistines then lost their trust in God. After the people wandered 20 years in idolatry, the priest Samuel was able to convince them to come back to the Lord.

Groseclose then shared a personal experience as an Army chaplain and father, when his son was involved in a serious car accident, which left him severely disabled. Any father's reaction might be to ask, "Why? Why my son?"

The Greybull, Wyo. native then explained how he broke a vertebra in his neck at age 17 while competing in a rodeo and had to have three vertebrae fused. This injury not only cost him his favorite recreation but seemed to destroy his goal of being an Army chaplain. It didn't. After college and serving four years as a pastor, he received his call for an appointment as an Army chaplain. Groseclose said it wasn't just what he wanted to do; it was what God wanted him to do.

"There are things in our lives we don't let God have control of because we've suffered a loss there and don't think we can trust God anymore," he said then referred to the site where Samuel met the people of Israel and encouraged them to return to the Lord. "Let's go back to Mizpeh. Let's get rid of the idols in our lives and go back to God."

Groseclose concluded with three points from three Old Testament passages that he said could help those attending the luncheon have a better understanding of God's will for their lives and strengthen their relationship with the Lord: Isaiah 43:5 - God is there for those who trust him; Jeremiah 29:11 - God has a plan for the lives of those who trust him; and Joshua 24:15 - those who say they trust God must choose today whether or not to serve him.

The WTB was established to help wounded, injured and severely ill Soldiers get the medical attention they need to heal and provide them with the emotional support, education opportunities and rehabilitation they need to transition back to their units or back into the civilian community. The Spiritual Fitness Luncheon was initiated to meet another part of that rehabilitation - the spirit.

HEALTH MATTERS

Winn Army Community Hospital

Accessing behavioral health services at Winn Army Community Hospital

Col. John P. Collins
MEDDAC Commander

One month ago I provided the community some updated information on our approach to improve our primary care access to care challenges at Winn Army Community Hospital.

I want to continue this feedback to ensure the community stays abreast with the most current information for accessing healthcare at the hospital or the local civilian network.

We consistently hear concerns on the lack of behavioral health resources for both servicemembers and their Families. We agree and are challenged to provide a full spectrum of behavioral health services at Winn. This is why we rely so heavily on our network of civilian providers in the surrounding community.

My intent in this article is to fully explain what Value Options, TRICARE's military and Family resource for behavioral health, provide for behavioral health services. A wealth of information is available at www.humana-military.com as well as contact numbers to book appointments.

I want to stress that behavioral health care and counseling is available in our community. We require Value Options to provide behavioral health care within a 60-minute drive time from your home and an appointment within 28 days.

As of last week, there were 107 behavioral health providers (psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers and Family therapists) available through TRICARE in the Coastal Empire area.

We understand that even Savannah can be inconvenient sometimes and are we are working hard to get more providers closer to the Hinesville area.

But these behavioral health specialists are available to meet your healthcare needs. We encourage you to use them, especially during these stressful times when loved ones are deployed or returning from deployment.

Over the past year, more than 4,300 patients were sent to the TRICARE network for behavioral health services.

The demand for these services definitely exists. I'm happy to inform you that the wait for an appointment for all behavioral health specialties averaged between 8-14 days, well below the 28 day access standard. This includes access to child psychiatry services, which I hear as a community concern in a number of forums.

We are striving to improve access to care to include continually developing the availability of local behavioral health professionals.

We don't want you going without behavioral health services because of a perceived limited availability of care in the immediate area.

Winn will continue to increase our recruitment efforts to hire more psychologists. We have been very successful hiring the full complement of social workers required to provide those services.

The Fort Stewart community has been a very stressful environment for both Soldiers and Family members. It is important we reduce any stigma about obtaining behavioral health services. They are available. Please use them to help improve the quality of your health and life.

In closing, we are committed to making available services that are responsive and accessible to you. Active duty servicemembers and TRICARE Prime enrolled Family members are eligible for the appointment services at 1-877-298-3514 or visit the Web site www.humana-military.com and follow the links for behavioral health.

Assistance is also available from Winn's Social Work Service at 435-6779 or Army Community Service at 435-2077. All other callers can seek assistance at 1-800-700-8646.

Kiosk, commentary boxes provide voice to the community

Joyce Bailey shows Doc Dougherty, Chief Transition Center, how to use the Joint Services onestop kiosk at the Sgt. Audie Murphy Soldier Center, April 25.

Special to the Frontline

Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield fielded additional tools to provide a stronger voice to community members April 25 with the placement of 20 new Joint Services Onestop kiosks and additional comment boxes throughout the installation.

The additions are a force multiplier to the Interactive Customer Evaluation system, according to Joyce Bailey, Plans, Analysis and Integration representative.

The installation, three-time winner of the Army Community of Excellence Award, understands the importance of customer feedback and wants to empower the community to help the installation remain the station to train, deploy, live, and choose to raise their Family.

The 207 customer comment boxes and 20 kiosks were strategically located throughout Stewart-Hunter. The Hunter locations are at the commissary, building 7520; guest housing, building 6010; education center, building 1290; Hunter Club, building 6015; Hunter Lanes, building 1280; AAFES post exchange, building 6220; and Army Community Services, building 1279.

The Stewart locations are at the Sgt. Audie Murphy Soldier Support Center, building 253; Soldier and Family Assistance Center, building 12718; Sgt. 1st Class Paul R.

Smith Education Center, building 100; Main Post Chapel, building 500; Rocky's Club, building 703; Caro Fitness Center, building 708; Fort Stewart PX, building 71; guest housing, building 495; ACS, building 86; Marne Lanes, building 401; Stewart Lanes, building 450; Jordan Youth Gym, building 608; and the commissary, building 421.

The new additions will help validate priorities, improve services, and facilitate continued development as a customer-focused and results-driven organization.

The kiosks and comment stations will not replace the ICE portion of the Customer Management System but provides additional venues for customer feedback. ICE is a Web based system already in place and is available via Internet at ice.disa.mil. A link is also located on the Fort Stewart Web site, www.stewart.army.mil.

Bailey said the Kiosk customers who use the Joint Services Onestop will be surprised at the number of tools it puts at their fingertips including Army Knowledge Online, MyPay, on-post services, in-processing assistance, retiree and reserve services, Family support, maps, Civilian Personnel Office Portal, common forms and much more.

Community members are encouraged to learn more about the Kiosk and other installation activities. For more information, call PAI at 767-6300 or 767-0443.

DOIM employee recognized as 2007 Conus COMSEC custodian

Special to the Frontline

Expertise and knowledge of Communication Security accounting procedures earned James VanderZyl, Directorate of Information Management COMSEC custodian, recognition as CONUS COMSEC custodian for 2007.

Vander Zyl accepted his award during the recent Global INFOSEC Partnership Conference held at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., May 6.

VanderZyl has worked on Fort Stewart in both a military and civilian capacity since 1990 and has a total of 28 years of dedicated government service.

We have all heard the term COMSEC before through annual security training. In layman's terms, COMSEC encompasses all secure communications to include all secure telephones, faxes and computer equipment used to relay classified or higher information and data.

The COMSEC custodian would literally and figuratively be the keeper of the key. All of this equipment and information must be documented to ensure credibility, validity and continuity of communications.

During the recent audit and inspection performed by the Communications Security Logistics Activity, VanderZyl excelled in this area with zero deficiencies. He personally manages over 300 COMSEC items and 15 hand receipt holders.

VanderZyl additionally provides guidance and assistance to other account holders. During the recent deployment of the 3rd Infantry Division, he provided exceptional support to both divisional and tenant units by absorbing the assets of 28 additional deployed account holders.

Tom Hanks, Charlie Wilson's War - reviewed

Commentary by:
Sasha McBrayer
Fort Stewart Museum

Tom Hanks has been kind to the South. In "The Green Mile" he is a Louisiana death row correction's officer. And in "Forrest Gump", filmed in our area, he is, well, Forrest Gump. "Charlie Wilson's War" marries the seriousness of "Green Mile" and the comedy of "Gump" to tell an unusual and true story about the biggest covert war in history.

As a democratic Texas congressman, Charlie Wilson leads the cast along with the real-life Georgia girl, herself, Julia Roberts.

Wilson is a roguish character, fond of the drink and partying. His entire staff at his DC office is comprised of attractive young women.

Despite his playboy social life, the man is instantly taken by the plight of the resistance of Afghanistan against the Soviets during the Cold War, which is when the film is set.

Similarly, the wealthy Joanne Herring (Roberts) is deeply troubled by the plight of the dying and starving people worlds away. She helps to put Wilson on the road to help, and soon they are "all in".

Gust Avrakodos, played by the great Phillip Seymour Hoffman, is another rogue. He is a disgruntled CIA station desk chief with a bad attitude and even worse mouth. Though there are ups and downs, the serendipitous meeting of the three and some foreign officials, proves to change history.

What begins as a small move to double the cash flow to Afghanistan quickly becomes a risky, but incredible effort to secretly bring the rebels Russian weapons to stamp out communism without turning the Cold War into a hot one, between the States and the Soviets. The dialogue is fast-paced and requires undivided attention. Though the film is a bio-pic, and political to boot, it is very funny and extremely well acted, though fan favorite Amy Adams ("Enchanted") only has a small role here.

"Charlie Wilson's War" is one of Hank's better films since "Road to Perdition." It is now available to rent.

Prepare for Hurricane Season

Special to the Frontline

Hurricanes can cause widespread damage without ever making landfall. Tropical systems from the Atlantic Ocean and Gulf of Mexico have caused major flooding and inland winds as far north as the mountain regions in Georgia. In addition, rapid population growth along the hurricane-prone coastline increases the risk of loss of life and extreme property damage. Everyone takes personal responsibility for taking appropriate preventive measures to prepare himself or herself in the event of a hurricane.

Command hurricane policy

- The installation commander makes all decisions requiring evacuation of Fort Stewart and Hunter Army Airfield. Local county emergency management agencies decide on evacuation within their jurisdictions.

- Fort Stewart provides shelter facilities for billeted Soldiers, not families in GMH, ordered to evacuate from Hunter Army Airfield.

- Fort Stewart decisions follow the principle of "run from the water, hide from the wind."

- Greatest threat is wind damage and storm surge.

MARNE TV is the official source of news, information, and updates. The Stewart-Hunter intranet and Web site on the internet are also news sources.

- Soldiers may have duties that prevent their evacuation with their Families.

- On- and off-post Families must prepare to evacuate to Georgia emergency shelters or other inland locations, with or without their sponsors.

- Preparation is critical to success. Ensure you have an evacuation plan.

- Pet owners must make proper arrangements for their pets during evacuations. This includes having enough water and food for each pet. The use of pet carriers is recommended.

Hunter Army Airfield policy

- There will be no shelters opened on Hunter Army Airfield.
- Based upon projected storm track and intensity, the installation commander may decide that Soldiers residing in barracks will remain there and will encourage Families in GMH Military Housing to remain in housing.

- During hurricanes, the installation commander may decide that Soldiers residing in barracks will evacuate to other locations specified by their respective chains of command. Soldiers and their Families residing in GMH will evacuate via privately owned vehicles to Georgia emergency shelters or other inland locations.

- Soldiers and Family members residing off-post must follow the orders and directives of their respective local emergency management agency and evacuate to Georgia emergency shelters or other inland locations.

Fort Stewart policy

- The Central Inprocessing Center for evacuees is Mower Processing Center, building number 208. This serves as the central inprocessing center for Fort Stewart. The designated parking is the Mower Processing Center parking lot.

- POVs will be used to evacuate when possible.

- Based upon projected hurricane track and intensity, the installation commander may decide that Soldiers residing in barracks will remain there and will encourage Families residing in GMH to also remain in housing.

- During intense hurricanes, the installation commander may decide that Soldiers residing in barracks will evacuate to other locations specified by their respective chains of command. Soldiers and their Families residing in GMH will evacuate via POV to Georgia emergency shelters or other inland locations..

- Soldiers and Family members residing off-post will follow the orders and directives of their respective local emergency management agency and evacuate to Georgia emergency shelters or other inland locations..

Command sponsored hurricane/severe weather awareness briefings

Special to the Frontline

The Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield garrison will be conducting three Hurricane/Severe Weather Awareness Briefings for the upcoming hurricane season. These briefings are for Soldiers, Family members, Family Readiness Groups and Department of the Army civilians.

There will be a briefing at Stewart, May 20. It will be conducted at Moon Theater, building 704, from 6 to 8 p.m. Directorate of Morale, Welfare and Recreation's Child and Youth Services will provide child care free of charge starting at 5:30 p.m. at building 403.

There will be one briefing at Hunter Army Airfield, May 21. It will be conducted at the Hunter Club, building 6015, from 6 to 8 p.m. DMWR/CYS will provide child care free of charge starting at 5:30 p.m. at building 1284.

Child care will be free of charge, provided on a first come, first serve basis. Children do not have to be registered through CYS. Please have the parents call the child development center, building 403 at Fort Stewart at 767-3202, or the CDC, building 1284, at Hunter at 315-6115.

In addition, Stewart and Hunter will be conducting their annual Hurricane Exercise, May 6 and 7 between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day. Drivers should be cautious as they travel on the installations and delays at gates roadways may occur. Also, there will be "Exercise" messages being put out over the emergency warning system. These messages over the EWS will not be conducted during inclement weather.

This exercise is being conducted to test the installation's response plans in conjunction with local, state and other federal emergency management agencies. For more information about the exercise, call Tony Fleeger at 767-2583.

Southeast Region salutes Volunteers

Special to the Frontline

FORT MCPHERSON, Ga. - The Installation Management Command, Southeast Regions joins the Army leadership in saluting volunteers during National Volunteer Week, April 27 through May 3.

"Our Army is especially indebted to our volunteers for stepping forward to serve while we are a nation at war," wrote Secretary of the Army Pete Geren and Chief of Staff George W. Casey, Jr. in a recent message extending their gratitude to volunteers. "As we continue combat operations in the global war on terrorism, we are acutely aware that our volunteers play an increasingly important role in maintaining readiness."

The role of Volunteers in maintaining readiness is increasingly evident within IMCOM Southeast where approximately 12,000 volunteers saved the Army more than $2 million through their selfless efforts.

Organizations in the Southeast Region that utilize volunteers have established new ways to engage people to continue to harness the power of people who believe that one person can make a difference. Southeast Region volunteer organizations have adapted to meet the demands of today's Army by offering both long and short-term commitments and opportunities for Families or individuals to volunteer from their homes, during evenings, weekdays and/or weekends.

Volunteers make a difference and have made an impact as mentors in Child and Youth Services, Youth Sports Program, Better Opportunities for Single Soldiers, Boy Scouts, Religious Education, Red Cross, and Army Community Service and other organizations. Volunteers also serve as museum tour guides, offer income tax assistance, visit wounded Soldiers, put together gift bags for single Soldiers returning from deployments, and assist those needing help as they compete in the Special Olympics program.

Some current volunteer initiatives in the Southeast Region include several students at Fort Campbell High School who are receiving a different kind of education from Army Family Team Building volunteers. The program consists of a series of workshops designed to instill adolescents with skills as they cope with deployments and simultaneously prepare for adulthood.

More than 40 teams of volunteers will work in September on the annual House of Heroes blitz across Columbus, Ga. and Phoenix City, Ala. Fort Benning volunteers have united with the community and work as one team with many members to make repairs on homes of Army widows.

Volunteers deserve gratitude for the selfless gift they give. The time, energy, skills, and talents they generously lend are priceless. Their efforts and dedication help make Army organizations more efficient and communities stronger while favorably impacting on readiness and taking care of Soldiers.

Third Party enhances care

Do you have health insurance other than TRICARE? Third Party Collection Program recovers funds from health insurance companies, other than TRICARE, for the cost of medical care delivered at Winn Army Community Hospital or Tuttle Army Health Clinic to insured patients.

The program provides much needed funds to Winn and Tuttle and can save you money. The funds are used to enhance patient care, upgrade equipment and maintain services.

We need your assistance to accomplish this mission. For more information contact the TPCP office today, at 435-6037/5407.

Log on to Behavioral Health

The Army has a great Behavioral Health Web site. The link is www.behavioralhealth.army.mil. This link is designed to be a central source of behavioral health information and relevant links for Soldiers, Family members, providers, and the public.

Call Mental Health hotline

Soldiers who have been reluctant to seek help for mental health problems may call a new automated phone-in assessment program. The hotline is the latest effort to reach out to Soldiers and Family members who might not otherwise seek help for post-traumatic stress or other psychological issues.

The calls will be conducted in English and Spanish and will operate 24 hours, daily. The toll-free number for the Telephone Self-Assessment is (877) 877-3647.

God's strength makes change interesting

Chap. (Lt. Col.) Bill Ralston
2nd BCT Rear Detachment Chaplain

How do you handle change? That is the question I want us to think about today.

How do Soldiers and spouses and Families handle change? Everyone has changes in his or her life. And in the military we have even more change, because God makes choices, and you and I make choices and Uncle Sam makes choices about us too. So how do we handle change?

Did you know your body changes every seven years? It's true. Every cell in your body regenerates itself in a seven year cycle. That means your body will be made up of completely new cells seven years from today! Very amazing!

A Greek philosopher named Heracles once said that a person cannot step into the same river twice!

The answer is easy. The water your foot touches is down-stream, around the bend and under the bridge. Even if you put your foot in the same place in the river, the water will be different.

All this is to say that we are surrounded by change daily: new Soldiers in the unit, new Family next door, new person at the next desk in the office are all examples.

I think there are three ways to handle change in a positive manner:

First, you can ACCEPT change, as the circumstances dictate. In the Old Testament, in the Book of 1 Samuel, there was a change. The people of Israel wanted a new form of government. They wanted a king, like all the surrounding peoples. God was not particularly in favor of this change, and Samuel was decidedly against it. But God gave Samuel good advice.

"Go ahead with the change. It is what the people want. I will allow it."

Sometimes we have to accept change as circumstances dictate.

Secondly, you can PROMOTE change, for the right reasons! In our nation, we have a "bloodless revolution" every four years. It is called our presidential election.

When our Constitution was written, most of Europe was governed by monarchies. Ours was a courageous change. But the beauty of our system is that the people choose their president for the next four years.

There seems to me to be two types of people in the world: those who promote change and those who have their foot on the brake. The truth is, we need both. The people who promote change bring progress; the people who have their foot on the brake promote stability. Both are needed in a civilization.

You can ACCEPT change and you can PROMOTE change...

And thirdly, in the midst of change, you can CLING TO THE SINGLE CONSTANT in this world. That would be the living God. There is an old saying that "when you've hit rock bottom, you've hit the 'rock of ages.'" Of course, I am speaking from a Christian perspective, but the Scriptures say that Jesus Christ is "the same yesterday, today, and tomorrow."

Our dependence in a changing world is with the One who said "I will never leave you, or forsake you."

I hope there is enough change in your life, to keep life interesting. And I hope there is enough stability in your life, for you to feel secure. We need both!

But when it comes to God, you can always count on His strength, and you can always depend upon His presence...each day and every day. Amen.
